THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

A Matter of Prestige

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17. AN INFORMED and objective reporter who specializes in the labor-union field recently wrote that the real purpose of the campaign for Philip Murray and his blatant young aide, Mr. Walter Reuther, have now launched is to regain the "leadership" which Mr. Lewis wrested from them in his recent coal strike.

DURING that strike, Mr. Murray had to play second fiddle to Mr. Lewis, whom he bitterly hates. In addition, he had to support him with a series of demagogic statements. In addition, he had to postpone and rearrange his own schedule. In addition, for three weeks and more his press conferences, public pronouncements and general publicity were all subordinated to Mr. Lewis upon whom the limelight played incessantly—and still does. All of which was gall and wormwood to Mr. Murray, who is a puny type compared to Mr. Lewis, wholly dependent for prestige and position upon the unprecidently expensive and elaborate publicity and promotion agencies which the CIO has built up around him.

IT IS the considered opinion of this reporter that the rivalries of the present-day labor leaders are a basic cause for the great strikes with which the nation has been afflicted and for those that are now threatened. If it is argued, one

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

After France's other major parties had rejected a bid to enter his Cabinet, Socialist leader Leon Blum formed an interim Cabinet consisting entirely of members of his own party to rule until mid-January.

A United States short-wave radio transmitter has been erected in Munich to make Russian-language broadcasts to the Soviet Union.

A MISTAKE OF MOSES

Politics divides into two chapters—running for an office, and holding it.

As many a public figure has found, the two have little in common.

Some of the best candidates made the poorest officials—as witness the late Jimmy Walker in New York. On the other hand, Al Smith, who was one of the best governors New York ever had, misjudged the nation's wishes so badly in running for President that he suffered one of the most crushing defeats any candidate ever met—so devastating that, for the first time since the Civil War, it broke the solid Democratic South.

The knack of being a good candidate for office isn't taught in books. Partly it calls for God-given native abilities, and likewise for a considerable element of good luck. Since the radio especially, requirements of appearance and voice may be too drastic for either grooming or study to overcome.

The art of being a good executive is something else. Any man with brains and background can be an executive. Judgment, observation, patience, a sense of discretion—these are ingredients anyone can cultivate.

Executives in public office rarely suffer for lack of advice. What their friends don't offer, their enemies, and outsiders on press and radio, usually do. The question is not one of finding what to do, but of deciding between sometimes attractive or sometimes unhappy alternatives—of deciding, and then sticking to it.

The great problem of all executives, however, is not so much deciding on policy as picking assistants to carry it out—of selecting men of proper ability and determination to do the work, and then of giving them enough responsibility to keep them working, without giving them so much that they wind up being "on their own."

This is a problem in human relations, and there is no short-cut answer. Times and temperaments change. Yet it is a key point in any administration. Few Americans will need to be reminded that one of the great weaknesses which haunted the late President Roosevelt was his inability to make the opinionated and temperamental figures he chose as subordinates work harmoniously together.

Those who are interested in the problem can find a classical discussion of it in that source of so many illuminating stories dealing with human nature—the Bible.

FIRE CAUSES $3,000 DAMAGE AT LANGHORNE

Dense Smoke Hinders Firemen at Gray Residence on Richardson Avenue

ASHES IGNITE BASKET

LANGHORNE, Dec. 17—Said to have become ignited from hot ashes placed in a basket in the basement, damage totalling about $3,000 was caused by fire at the house occupied by Mr. Gray and family, colored, Richardson avenue, here, yesterday afternoon.

The fire was discovered by a passerby at 2:30 o'clock, no one being in the Gray home at the time. Langhorne, Hulmeville, Trevose and Parkland fire companies responded to the alarm, and found a stubborn fight on their hands, the house being filled with dense smoke.

After locating the source of the smoke, the basement, the firemen ran hose lines through two small windows in the basement, using a supply of water from the borough hydrants. For two hours they remained on the scene.

Damage was confined mainly to the basement and some of the flooring they supported. Some pieces of furniture were damaged by water.

According to Chief Harold Soffel, of Langhorne Company, hot ashes placed in a basket ignited the basket, a pile of wood then catching fire.

The house is of frame and brick construction.

Lad of Seven Struck By Car Near Quakertown

QUAKERTOWN, Dec. 17—Paul Dietler, seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dietler, Hellertown, R. D. 1, is receiving treatment in Quakertown Community Hospital for injuries as the result of having been struck by an automobile after he had alighted from a school bus on Route 412, Friday.

Hospital officials said that children who were in the bus at the time of the accident reported the victim was thrown from five to ten feet when struck. He escaped, however, with no noticeable body marks other than abrasions.

The driver of the car into whose path State Police say the boy walked was Harold Knorr, Bethlehem, State Police of the Quakertown barracks reported Dietler alighted from the bus across the highway from his home. He is said to have walked around the rear of the bus, which was on its way from Hellertown, and into the path of the auto which was proceeding in the direction of Hellertown.

BUYS CANNERY AND PLANS EXPANSION

Charles H. Landreth Takes Over the Penn's Manor
Canning Co. Here

COMPANY 30 YRS. OLD

Charles H. Landreth, vice-president of D. Landreth Seed Company, of Philadelphia, has purchased the Penn's Manor Canning Co. located on Bloomsdale Farm above Bristol. For many years the Landreth firm owned the cannery but this summer it became the property of Supple-Biddle Company of Philadelphia and it was from this firm Mr. Landreth purchased the company.

The company was organized over 30 years ago and recently has canned tomato products only, although pumpkin and squash were also canned at one time. During the peak season which has been in September Penn's Manor has had a payroll of 50 to 60 persons. Plans are now being developed to increase the products canned by the company, as in the past, the season has been relatively short.

Insecticide dusts will be manufactured for the first time by the company.

Mr. Landreth, who resides at Chestnut Hill, has been connected with the Penn's Manor Co. for the past 17 years. Others in the new organization will be Bernet Landreth, 3rd, brother of Charles Landreth and he also was connected with the Seed Company for many years. Arch E. Ehnis of Green Lane who has been manager of the company is in the new organization and also Charles T. Hornby, of Otter street who will specialize in plant breeding and insecticide dust manufacturing.

The company will be ready to write contract acreage with local farmers in the near future. Operations will be much the same as in the past except on a larger scale. A new office has just been built and the plant has been repaired and additional machinery is being installed. The D. Landreth Seed Company of Philadelphia will operate Bloomsdale Farm as in the past and will purchase seed from the cannery.

REFUSE TO DISSOLVE JAPANESE PARLIAMENT

Tokyo—Noisy legislators turned down a precedent-breaking motion to dissolve the Japanese Parliament today by a vote of 236 to 164. The vote indirectly meant victory for Premier Yoshida and his Cabinet, who have been the object of day-long labor demonstrations in Tokyo.

As thousands of labor demonstrators milled outside the Diet building shouting "down with Yoshida," the lower house floor resembled a prize-fight ring. During the debate on the motion to dissolve themselves, lawmakers engaged in numerous scuffles, with at least three Diet members exchanging angry punches.

The motion was placed before the house floor by Tetsu Katayama, leader of Japan's Social Democratic Party. His motion had the support of other minor parties, including the Communists and Co-operative Democrat Peoples Party.

Tomorrow; Seven Extra
Clerks Started Monday

BRISTOL OFFICE BUSY

To cope with the rush of individuals to mail Christmas parcels, greetings, and other pieces of mail, Bristol post office officials will add 15 extra carriers tomorrow.

The 15 additional carriers who will add in distribution of holiday season mail, locally, are war veterans and high school students. They will work eight hours daily until Christmas Day.

Already seven extra clerks are busily engaged at the post office, aiding in sorting the mail, etc. Some of the extra clerks are working eight hours daily, while others are employed for five and six hours each evening. The addition of clerks took place yesterday.

Each day sees line-ups at the post office building at Beaver and Prospect streets, in spite of the fact that to assure delivery of parcels, greetings and letters by Christmas Day, those consigned to distant parts of the United States were to have been mailed by December 15th.

In order to keep pieces moving in Bristol, carriers will make many extra trips between the post office building and local homes.

NO MENACE IN IT

Acknowledging that the United States, Britain and Canada have engaged in informal exchanges of views on the standardization of military equipment, the State Department strongly stresses the point that these talks are a result of wartime co-operation. More than that, it has denied categorically that this "very natural development" implies any political arrangements or commitments.

The statement recalls that Secretary of State Byrnes said on March 16 of this year, "We do not propose to seek security in an alliance with the Soviet Union against Great Britain or in an alliance with Great Britain against the Soviet Union." And it adds: "There has been no change in this policy. Commitments of the United States are to the United Nations."

Both the explanation for the exchanges and the flat assertion that they do not reflect an alliance among the three countries concerned are forthright enough. But whether this pronouncement will reassure the Russians is another question. It must be clear to them that an association so close that the parties to it are willing to standardize their weapons creates the necessary inference of joint action in the event of an emergency.

That is to say that the Russians may conclude, regardless of American protestations, that this program is directed against them. At the same time, they must recognize that the common interests of the three countries are such that a continuation of warfare co-operation is inevitable. At least the fact of its existence is out in the open.

Moreover, the course followed by the United States in its dealings with other nations is valid assurance that there is no menace here for any peaceful people.

A CHALLENGE

The food industry of the United States is hitting an all-time high of $32,000,000,000 this year, according to Gene Flack, advertising and public relations counsel of a biscuit company. Two factors are contributing to this achievement—higher prices and increased consumption. The industry is approaching difficulties, Flack concedes, but he predicts that they will be surmounted.

Production capacity of the American food industry is 45 per cent greater than at the time of Pearl Harbor. "When the bulk of pent-up savings and income will have been dissipated in the flash inflation which is now developing, and an abundance of merchandise inundates the country, the biggest selling job of all time will confront us," he points out.

Gains of more than 45 per cent in the sales of food will be required if the new food productive capacity is to continue to operate at capacity.

Sugar, which is still under the blighting control of the OPA, is as scarce as meat was before Truman surrendered. Congress will know how to handle this situation when it meets in January.

It is a narrative with such broad essentials of humor that the reader can never be quite sure whether it was all written seriously, or with a subtle understanding that the story has its funny side.

If you will turn to Exodus, and follow the account of the Flight from Egypt to the point where Moses and the Israelites were safely at Mt. Sinai, you will find that Moses there ran into the difference between leading a roving band on the march, and being executive of a settled community.

The latter part of Chapter XVIII tells of his efforts to set up the machinery of government by which he could administer the affairs of the multitude he had brought with him. His process is told in Verses 25 and 26, which have often been quoted through the centuries because of the patness with which they fit similar problems in other affairs.

"And Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, rulers of tens.

"And they judged the people at all seasons: the hard cases they brought unto Moses, but every small matter they judged for themselves."

On the face of it, this appears to be an excellent, almost a perfect plan.

How did it work in practice? Not at all. Moses was necessarily absent from the community for long periods, since this was the time when there was being prepared an entire code of laws, ranging from the Ten Commandments down to such details as what to do if one man's ox gored another's.

The account of the breakdown in Moses' plan is picked up again at the beginning of Chapter XXII of Exodus:

"And when the people saw that Moses delayed to come down out of the mount, the people gathered themselves unto Aaron, and said unto him, Up, make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this Moses, the man that brought us out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him."

Aaron collected the earrings of the Israelites, melted them down, and "with a graving tool" shaped the Golden Calf, which for many centuries has been the symbol of worldliness in contrast to Godliness.

How Moses came to learn of the backsliding of his followers, how he punished them, and how he reasserted his own leadership, is a fascinating story which anyone can read for himself.

The main point is, that after the one mistake, Moses never again made the error of delegating too much authority, nor of going away and leaving his agents to do as they pleased. Thereafter, in the account of his doings, he is always personally on the scene. His own hand fitted the timbers into the tabernacle, his rod smote the rock, his tongue delivered the instructions to the people.

He had learned the first great lesson of all leadership—it can't be worked by remote control.

leader successfully strikes, gaining concessions and publicity, his rivals are compelled to strike or lose prestige, confess inferiority, shrivel in importance. So it is inevitable that the interludes between strikes become shortened and one follows another with or without excuse, regardless of contractual obligations or economic justification.

IT MUST be admitted there is considerable ground for this view, especially when the obvious itch for personal publicity among these "labor statesmen" is considered. This is most notable among the CIO heads engineering the new wage demands. They fairly revel in press conferences. They specialize in vituperative statements directed against industry and the very newspapers which consistently give these statements far more space than their news value justifies.

The present CIO campaign appears to follow exactly the pattern of the one last year launched against General Motors. It starts off with Mr. Murray exuding statements about the "monstrous conspiracy" to cripple labor and Mr. Reuther, who last year, after the strike, publicly admitted that his arguments were phony, making his usual truculent and reckless accusations against the employers. Then there followed a carefully staged luncheon in Washington, where Mr. Robert Nathan, the employed economist of the CIO, made public a "report" designed to bolster the CIO contention about the "huge profits" of industry and its ability to increase wages 25 per cent without increasing prices.

IT WILL be recalled that this is precisely what happened last year. Some time before the strike, figures appeared which seemed to prove that the corporations easily could raise wages 25 per cent without advancing prices. Then it was Mr. Henry Wallace who put the figures out, and as he was then Secretary of Commerce, they appeared to give official Government backing to the strike. Certainly, the CIO leaders made full use of these figures during the strike and it was not until the struggle was over that Mr. Wallace himself admitted they were inaccurate and unofficial and that the CIO interpretation of them was not justified. Mr. Nathan, employed by the CIO, has now produced a new set of figures. A former member of the Administration and a left-wing New Dealer, Mr. Nathan is now in private practice. He was host at the luncheon and managed to get several Government officials to attend.

IT is well understood that the CIO is his client and that his "report" was a matter of business. Mr. Nathan makes no pretense otherwise. His figures already have been denounced by the head of the National Association of Manufacturers as an "invitation for a new round of wage demands to be followed by a new series of serious strikes." Obviously, the Nathan report is not going to be as useful as the Wallace report. It will not convey the same idea of Administration support, but it is the best the CIO bosses can do this time. It will give them a basis for the publicity upon which they so much depend and upon which they have so greatly prospered.

THEY DO not, of course, expect anything like a 25 per cent increase, and with a resentful Congress about to meet, they are not anxious for another battle such as they had last year with General Motors. What they do want is something in the way of a concession that will restore their prestige and enable them to dispute the Lewis leadership in the labor world. These new wage demands come from the leaders, not from the rank and file. And the question of prestige undoubtedly has much to do with them.

P. S.—Recently in this space it was stated that a radio commentator had interpreted the calling off of the coal strike as a victory for Mr. Lewis. Mr. Raymond Swing was not the commentator in question.

Dear Friends:

The fact that we are organized is a privilege to ourselves and our members. We enjoy the privileges of a Union Shop and owe all our present advantages to the fact that we are able to bargain collectively and improve wages, working conditions, protect our jobs and carry on the principles of true Americanism.

We urge that you vote "Yes" in favor of a CIO Union, on Thursday, December 19th, and become brothers and sisters of those of us who are now happy because of the choice we made in the past.

Don't forget that on December 19th our feeling will be with you! --- Don't let us down! --- Vote "Yes"!

rs. William Blank, Treviso, led inayer. Several new members were deemed, and membership report Mrs. Frank Buckley, South Inghorne, gave total to date as 231. Report on the recent roast beef dinner served by the Legion and auxiliary was given by Mrs. William Harding. Mrs. Ernest Robinson informed that Christmas money has been sent to five young men from this area still in the armed forces, and that three more will be remembered. Rehabilitation report was given by Mrs. Warren Randall. Mrs. Howard Potter, Hulmeville, stated that a Christmas gift had been sent to the "adopted" girl at Scotland School, also one for the girl to give to the house mother here. Five dollars was voted to the Sister Kenney Foundation, and 25 to the "Thanks to the Yanks" fund. The latter will be augmented by funds donated by school pupils in this area. Mrs. Randall being in charge of the collection.

Members were reminded of the next bi-county council meeting at North Wales. The women agreed to co-operate with the local post in a "dollar night" during April. Mrs. Frank Sellers, chairman of juniors, reported repairs made to toys by juniors, these being given to children at the Lutheran Orphanage, Philadelphia. The president informed that on April 11th the minstrel show of the post and auxiliary will be staged in South Langhorne, on April 18th at Treviso, and on February 2nd at Coatesville Veterans Hospital.

Mrs. Phipps, membership chairman for this district, spoke briefly, telling of a personal award she is making to the unit securing the largest number of new members eligible from World War II, the period designated being October 1st to April 1st.

Naval Hospital (Phila.) chairman, Mrs. Reeves, gave much information regarding aid to the men in that hospital. She informed that a travel kit, filled with personal articles, and valued at $2, is to be given each patient. The Bi-County Council is caring for 400 men in 10 wards. A Christmas eve party will be held at the hospital also, with eight acts by professional talent being staged. Need for afghans, especially in the anthracite wards, was stressed. Mrs. Reeves reported that individuals were liberal this year with gifts of tree trimmings, Christmas cards and stamps, holiday items for the boys, etc. She suggested that any individuals who desire to plan a birthday party for a hospital patient there, might do so as a memorial in lieu of their usual church memorial bouquet, such a party costing but $5 and including a gift for the celebrant, and a birthday cake and other refreshments. She acknowledged the huge pile of gifts donated by members last evening for the patients.

Montgomery-Backs Council president, Mrs. Robert Davison, congratulated the unit on its large membership, gift shower and other work. "You are each a part of this unit, and so a part of the state and national work we are doing. Everything you do here helps build up our national program for the boys," she commented.

Mrs. Anthony Cardanzone, eastern director, outlined the general program for the year for the Auxiliary units, stressing the topic for each month. She mentioned in particular the 1000 seat amphitheatre project at Aspinwald tuberculosis hospital, said amphitheatre being planned as a gift from the Auxiliaries.

Auditor General Approves Payment

Auditor General G. Harold Wagner has approved payment of $4,132,360.88 to 62 of the 67 counties in the Commonwealth. The money represents the counties' share of the liquid fuels tax collected during the six-month period beginning June 1, 1946, and ending December 1, 1946.

The Act which provides for the payments specifies that a half cent of the three-cent permanent State tax collected on each gallon of liquid fuels used or sold and delivered within the Commonwealth for use in internal combustion engines for the generation of power, shall be paid into the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund of the State Treasury. Allocations are then made to the respective counties on the basis of the average return for the three preceding years.

Counties are required to maintain the funds in a special account designated as the "County Liquid Fuels Tax Fund". The money may be used only for the purpose of construction, reconstruction, maintenance and repair of roads, highways and bridges, including the payment of property damage, and for the payment of interest and sinking fund charges on bonds issued or used for highway and bridge purposes. Bucks county will receive $58,605.74.

Choosing Proper Shoes Is The First Step in Foot Care

Courtesy Peggy Sage

A cream massage does wonders for tired feet.

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN women tossed away silly little sunshades and took up golf sticks, they paved the way for the coming of any number of health and beauty blessings. It was interest in athletics that abolished the steel riveted corsets that had been howled down by doctors. When women found out it was more fun to swim than to parade on the beach, more thrilling to play tennis than to sit on the veranda, they developed better chests, healthier lungs, stronger musculature. As for feminine feet, they broke away from the pinching bondage of number fours, marched straight along, with no shame whatsoever, into sixes and sevens. Time was when women had to "break in" shoes which only meant that they were much too small. Every girl wanted to be a Cinderella. Now we realize that the perfect foot is in proportion to the body. If conditions are normal, if shoes are carefully selected, one shouldn't know that one has trotters. They protest when they are abused.

A good rule; wide, thick soled, low heels for sports; shoes with heels of wide base and only moderately high for walking and shopping; good old oxfords for housework; frivolous models for evening. The high heel, if worn only in the evening, will do no harm. It is when feet are on stilts all the time that trouble begins.

When walking, the weight of the body should descend equally, neither on the heels or the toes, but on that portion of the foot that is directly beneath the ankle bone. A shoe that fits snugly over the instep, has no slip at the heel, has width that permits no uncomfortable pressure on the toes, will make walking a pleasure, which it isn't if the feet are not properly shod.

Be kind to your feet, and they'll be kind to you, give you no trouble. Bathe them daily, put on fresh stockings every morning, have several changes of shoes. Massage with mineral oil or a good foot cream will help keep corns and calluses from forming.

Seems a long while ago, doesn't it?

HALF PRICE SALES! . . . remember them? There was a time when signs like that were commonplace.

But they're mighty rare in these days of soaring prices. Yet one "half price sale" has been going on right through the war years—and is continuing now in these so-called "inflation days."

It is electricity for home use. During the past fifteen years the price of electricity has been cut nearly in half as a result of better methods and improved performance on the part of your neighbors who operate Philadelphia Electric. In the same period, increased usefulness of electricity has led the average home to use more than twice as much.

That means better living . . . and a lot more for your money every time you snap an electric switch.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

No other tree that adorns our Earth.
That the eye of man hath seen,
So glorifies our Saviour's birth,
As the Regal Evergreen.
With love we adorn each branch tonight,
May it's lustre ne'er grow dim,
Let our anthems reach their highest height.
As this Day we honor Him.

A MAN FELT LIKE HIS BONES WERE BROKEN, DUE TO RHEUMATISM

One man recently stated that for years he felt like the bones in his legs were broken. This was due to muscular rheumatism. His muscles were swollen and his legs so stiff and sore that he couldn't walk without limping. He was in misery. Recently he started taking RHE-AID and says the feeling like his bones were broken disappeared the second day. The swelling and stiffness has gone from his muscles; now he can walk without suffering and says he feels like a new man.

RHE-AID contains Three Great Medical Ingredients which go right to the very source of rheumatic and neuritic aches and pains. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get RHE-AID. Sold by All Drug Stores here in Bristol. (Advertisement.)

Pattersons Are Wed Fifty Years; Have Celebration

Wed at Trenton, N. J., on December 16, 1896, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, Sr., of 216 Cedar street, last evening celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

A turkey dinner for the family arranged in their honor by their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, Jr., Morrisville, and Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson, Bristol, was served at Hansen's Inn, Morrisville. HIGH SCHOOL FIVE TO GET ACID TEST ON LOCAL COURT

Morrisville Team Booked To Oppose the Bunnies Here Tonight

GAME STARTS 7.30 P. M.

Both Teams Are Undeclared Thus Far This Season

Coach Don Patterman's Bristol High quintet will receive its acid test of the season tonight on the local court, meeting the Morrisville Bull-dog in a pre-holiday strength test of the Lower Bucks County League. First game of the junior varsity teams of the two schools will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Both Bristol and Morrisville are undefeated thus far. Morrisville has played three games, beating Moorestown, 45-19; Hamilton, 35-27, and Temple University High School, 45-35. Bristol beat Bryn Athyn in its opener, 44-38 and then trimmed Fallsington, 44-37.

The Morrisville team is led by co-captain Don Foti who is leading the scorers of his club. Teamed with "Walt" Barber at forward, this is a hard pair to stop but Coach Patterman feels that he has guards to do the trick. Coach Doherty will start Jack Young at center while his guards will be "Freddie" Racasta and "Bill" Sauerwald.

Patterman's forwards will be "Johnny" Pindar and "Dessy" DeLise while "Jim" Sottile will be at the pivot post. The defense players will be "Easy" Mama and Al Burton.

Both Junior Varsity teams are also undefeated. The Bristol jayvees are coached by Harry McClister who incidentally resides in Morrisville and graduated from Morrisville High before going to West Chester.

Last season, Morrisville won the championship of the Lower Bucks County circuit and is out to retain its laurels.
